POSITION STATEMENTS

PRESIDENT

BRENDON GREENAWAY

Office of Historic Preservation

Education; Professional Background, and Research Interests

I received my B.A. in Anthropology from Humboldt State University in 2006 and my M.A. in Anthropology from California State University Los Angeles in 2016, studying at both institutions under the direction of René Vellanoweth. I have participated in fieldwork and research ranging from Jedediah Smith State Park near Crescent City to the Santa Barbara Channel and San Nicolas Island and many places in between. I am currently serving on the SCA Executive Board as the Northern Vice President. The past two years have brought many challenges but I'm proud to say that the board did our best to quickly pivot and adapt to a new and entirely different reality. I did my best to assist in that effort and am thrilled at the success of the first (and hopefully annual) "Virtual Student Presentation Series" that I introduced and organized and other successful virtual events we held during October Archaeology Month. I'd also like to think that we overcame most of the tests and trials that we were confronted with. It has been a very rewarding term in which I learned much more than I ever expected to. Serving on the board, I have been able to see first-hand and truly appreciate the diversity-both personally and professionally-of our membership; the SCA truly has a very wide range of identities, backgrounds, opinions, personalities, and professional interests, and we are all the stronger for it. Before serving as VP, I was already an active SCA member, attending every annual meeting since 2006, serving as local arrangements chair for the 2019 meeting in Sacramento, organizing the 2019 forum "Current and Emerging Issues in Preserving California's Historic and Cultural Heritage," and teaching two SCA workshops on "Consulting with the SHPO under Section 106." I spent five years with the California State Parks Channel Coast District in Ventura and Santa Barbara counties before joining the Archaeology Section 106 Environmental Review Unit in the Office of Historic Preservation (OHP) in 2012. My assignments include National Historic Preservation Act Section 106 compliance review mainly for the United States Forest Service, Bureau of Land Management, National Parks Service, and the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, but frequently with the Army Corps of Engineers, California Department of Transportation, Bureau of Reclamation, and others as well. My position serving as staff to the State Historic Preservation Officer at OHP affords me an appreciation of the diversity of both pre-contact and historical cultures in California as well as a statewide perspective on the challenges that we as Californians face in preserving our shared heritage. My current interests in the field are influenced by this perspective and relate to public policy and legislation regarding the protection and preservation of historic properties and ensuring that all significance values are considered, for all Californians.

Position Statement

The Society for California Archaeology is an organization dedicated to the conservation of the heritage of California. To accomplish this and to increase public support for preservation, included among its other duties, the SCA is tasked with representing the concerns of California archaeologists before government commissions and agencies and on legislation as well as helping agencies in the management of archaeological sites.

Preserving California's historic heritage in the coming years will continue to be a difficult and daunting task. If unprecedented wildfires, rising seas and eroding coastlines, large scale renewable energy and habitat management, fire prevention projects across thousands of acres, new or expanded infrastructure such as roads, reservoirs, electric transmission lines, and housing to accommodate expected population growth weren't enough of a threat to archaeological and cultural resources, the assault on National Monuments, streamlining of environmental laws and other measures to quash public participation in NHPA and NEPA would seem to be.

The SCA is an organization which relies greatly on its volunteers. To continue to meet our objectives, I will work closely with my fellow board members and our volunteer committees. I will work with the Legislative Awareness Committee to represent the interests of our members in public policy and legislation and plan a "Day at the Capitol" event. I'll work with the Climate Change Committee to increase member awareness of threats to our historic heritage, from forces both natural and political. I will continue to encourage and support the work of the Women in California Archaeology Committee as they provide support and mentorship to women archaeologists in California and the newly formed Coalition for Diversity in California Archaeology as they strive to ensure that voices from the wide range of identities and backgrounds of our membership are heard. I'll make certain that the recent collaborative efforts between the Native American Programs Committee and the SCA Board on new events during California's Native American Heritage Month continues and provide support to the NAPC's great work to develop relationships, awareness, and greater understanding between the California Native Community and the CRM profession. I'll encourage the Standards and Ethics Advisory Committee to continue with new events and trainings for our members. I'll maintain my support for the Maritime Archaeology Committee as they advocate for the protection of often overlooked maritime cultural resources. Small CRM firms faced an extremely difficult set of circumstances over the past two years. Together with the Board I'll work towards the formation of a new SCA Small Business Committee that would provide a venue to collaborate and exchange ideas on how to overcome shared challenges. I'll work to strengthen and expand the relationship that SCA has developed with the Instituto Nacional de Antropología e Historia (INAH) with the ultimate goal of co-hosting a Data Sharing Meeting in Mexico.

If elected as your President, I'll use my experience on the board thus far to be ready to step in and get to work right away. It would be my great privilege to continue to serve you.

Northern Vice-President

JAY KING
Far Western

Education; Professional Background, and Research Interests

I have been a practicing archaeologist since 1990. I completed my undergraduate degree at UC Santa Cruz, and my master's at Simon Fraser University in 1997. I have worked at Far Western for the last 22 years, and am a principal and the current president of the company. During my time at Far Western, I have had the privilege to work with a talented group of people who embody the best of what CRM can accomplish: brilliant scholars as well as dedicated mentors and teachers. I am humbled at the prospect of carrying that forward.

My archaeological work has been primarily in the Inyo-Mono region and in western Nevada; my published work has focused on obsidian transport, settlement patterns, modeling effects of environmental change, and projectile point chronologies. I am also a GIS and database specialist, and have worked with a range of different clients on large data-management and custom application-development projects; these include the Information Centers, Caltrans, BLM, California State Parks, and others.

Position Statement

For the seven years between 2012 and 2018, I worked with the various program chairs of the annual meetings, to assist with the surprisingly difficult task of converting the 200-plus individual presentation submissions into a finished meeting program. I developed a database application to do this, which also allowed SCA to provide a simplified, mobile-friendly online version of the program. While that application and the mini-program have since been supplanted by more sophisticated applications, I believe it was a timely, simple solution, which I hope people found useful while navigating the wealth of information on offer at the meetings. More recently, as the president of Far Western and the person primarily responsible for the company's technology strategy, I have had a very challenging past year-and-a-half working to devise a way to keep more than 100 people working productively together in the face of lockdowns and office closures. I hope to bring some of this experience to SCA, exploring new and creative ways of sharing research in the modern era. At the same time, I recognize that technology is just the means, and not the end; and that meaningful, open communication depends on people, not software. Thanks for considering my candidacy.

JESSE MARTINEZ

GEI Consultants, Inc.

Education; Professional Background, and Research Interests

Jesse received his Master's degree in Anthropology at California State University, Sacramento. His thesis was a diachronic study of Mt. Hicks obsidian use across various microenvironments. He has worked in the field as a field technician, crew chief, field director, and project manager on various projects large and not-so-large since 1997 for companies ranging in size from small to multinational. He currently works for GEI Consultants, Inc., an employee-owned company that is comfortably moderate sized. He started his career as a flaked stone analyst and with an interest in organization of technology theory, and that's still where his heart lies.

Position Statement

Archaeology can be fun. Lots of fun. Many of us wouldn't have stuck with it over the years if it wasn't. The archaeological community can also provide a sense of belonging, purpose, and identity; how many of us have seen strangers out in a rural motel parking lot and just known those were fellow archaeologists? One aspect of being an archaeologist, however, is usually less mentioned, our professionalism.

For those of us in the private sector, our clients rely on us to interpret regulatory requirements and competently carry them out and report the results in professional, technical documents. Archaeologists working for government agencies are relied upon to make sure the regulations have been followed, interpret the regulations and insure they have been followed in accordance with their agency's policies. All of this, of course, is just barebones, and doesn't mention the varied other responsibilities that come with specific positions and everything required to fulfill aspects of the job, not to mention positions outside of just private sector or agency. To do all this requires a high order of professionalism.

I want stress that aspect of archaeologists that doesn't always receive that much attention in our community, that we are highly skilled individuals with specialized knowledge performing an amazing variety of tasks. That archaeologists are professionals.

JUSTIN WISELY

Pacific Legacy, Inc.

Education; Professional Background, and Research Interests

I earned my BA from CSU Sacramento in 2009, followed by my MA from CSU Chico in 2016. I have worked in CRM for various companies since 2009, and I've been with Pacific Legacy since 2020. I am interested in both historic and prehistoric archaeology, ethnography, and archaeobotany. I specialize in starch grain analysis on ground stone, flaked stone, and dental calculus with a focus on non-destructive methodologies.

Position Statement

I am running for Northern California Vice President because volunteering for the SCA is important and I would like to take the opportunity to support the SCA and those it serves. As a Vice President, I will take pride in facilitating cooperation among the members and coordinating accessible events focused on equity and inclusion. I will focus on encouraging the next generation to become more involved with the SCA and work on outreach to students early in their education through our members. These goals will be complicated by current and potential future pandemics, which will require a flexible approach and the need to adapt to changing needs. I will bring the necessary outlook and experience to meet the adapting needs of the SCA and our members. I am a long-standing member of the SCA who has enjoyed taking part in the various events and programs that membership provides, and I look forward to doing my part in making sure those opportunities are available to the next generation of members.

Secretary

DAVID BALL

Bureau of Ocean Energy Management

Education; professional background, and research interests

I completed my BA in Anthropology at Sonoma State University in 1992 and MA in Anthropology at Florida State University in 1998; and have been a Registered Professional Archaeologist since 1999. Over the past thirty years, I've had the opportunity to work on terrestrial and underwater archaeological sites across the country. In my early career I gained experience working in academia, the private sector, and for state agencies in Florida and Texas; and for the past twenty-plus years with the federal government. Since 2010, I've worked as the Pacific Region Historic Preservation Officer for the Bureau of Ocean Energy Management (BOEM) under the Department of the Interior, and also served as the BOEM Pacific Region Tribal Liaison Representative for eight years. During that time, I led the Region's efforts to develop best practices for consultation with Native American Tribes and Native Hawaiian Communities. I currently sit on two international advisory bodies for underwater cultural heritage, the Advisory Council on Underwater Archaeology (ACUA), and the International Committee on the Underwater Cultural Heritage (ICUCH) and am an administrative officer for the SCA's California Maritime Archaeology Committee. My research interests focus on underwater cultural heritage, including submerged pre-contact sites, historic shipwrecks, site formation processes, and cultural landscapes.

Position Statement

In recent years, I have had the opportunity to become more involved with the Society for California Archaeology (SCA) through the California Maritime Archaeology Committee (CMAC), and particularly through trainings that CMAC has offered. I am excited about the opportunity to expand my involvement with SCA further by running for the position of SCA Secretary.

The role of Secretary is important to maintaining an accurate record of SCA Board and Business meetings, as well as ad hoc meetings that may arise. During my eight-year tenure as an elected member of the Advisory Council on Underwater Archaeology (ACUA), I had an opportunity to gain a first-hand appreciation of the importance of this role by serving for three years as ACUA Secretary and a fourth year as ex-officio, where I served in an advisory role to the Board's new Secretary.

I believe I possess the organizational skills necessary to serve as SCA Secretary, and if elected, I will work to support the Society's mission of outreach and advocacy for historic preservation in California. I would also bring my extensive experience with underwater cultural heritage to the Board, and provide opportunities to liaise, as appropriate, with other organizations of which I am a member, including ACUA and ICUCH.

KAREN GARDNER

AECOM

Education; professional background, and research interests

Karen is a CRM archaeologist and osteologist, and works for AECOM, out of the Oakland and Sacramento offices. She received her master's degree in anthropology from California State University, Chico in 2013, with a dual emphasis in archaeology and biological anthropology/osteology. Her master's thesis, which looked at evidence for social identity (including gender, social age, ritual and craft specializations, population affinity, and disability) at a Muwekma Ohlone cemetery site in Milpitas, California, received the CSU Chico Outstanding Thesis Award for 2013. She received her BA in Anthropology in 1990 from UC Santa Cruz, and graduated with honors. Between degrees, she worked as a business systems analyst for an international technology company, but returned to school, and to archaeology, because she needed work that gave her life some meaning. Her research interests include bioarchaeology, zooarchaeology, dietary reconstruction, social identity, and Peruvian archaeology. She has published on breastfeeding and weaning practices of the ancestral Muwekma Ohlone, and on pre-contact violence in California. Her previous governance experience includes serving on the Board of the California Institute for Peruvian Studies from 2018-2020.

Position Statement

These past years have been a challenge to all of us, and a time of reflection about the things that matter most. I have always thought I would serve as part of SCA leadership "someday". Over the past two years, it has become clear that "someday" should be now. California archaeology is a dynamic field, and the new and heightened considerations of safety, inclusion, and collaboration, as well as ongoing conversations about climate change, repatriation, and social, racial, and gender equity, make leadership during this time especially charged with potential and with responsibility. I am aware of the weight of these issues, and am committed to being receptive and learning from the membership and from descendent groups outside of the membership, and then bringing these perspectives to the attention of the Board. I have been especially impressed with the SCA's commitment to safety, and felt that the 2021 Annual Meeting was a great success, under really difficult circumstances. As much as we all enjoy being physically together, the online format provided a safe, flexible, accessible, and lower cost alternative to the traditional meeting format, and some of those benefits are worth recognizing. I would like to explore options for ongoing flexible attendance approaches, including hybrid in-person and remote opportunities. My background in business, strong communication skills, and attention to detail, make me well qualified to serve as Secretary. I would really like to have the honor of being part of the SCA Executive Board, and hope to win your vote. Thank you.

Obsidian Hydration Dating (9a.m.-11a.m.)

OSTE1: Introduction to Comparative Osteology

Instructor: Melanie Beasley

Encountering human or non-human bone in the field is something many of us experience. This hands-on workshop is designed to help archaeologists and monitors get acquainted with basic osteological identification methods.

The workshop will use comparative materials to focus on identifying human versus non-human bone. This course is a basic introduction to the skeleton and features that can be useful for differentiating human from other mammal bone.

Pre-registration is required.

Maximum enrollment: 25

8:00 a.m. – 12:00 p.m.

Cost: $40.00

OSTE2: Advanced Human Osteology

Instructor: Melanie Beasley

Often we encounter human bone in the field and it is the only opportunity to capture information to contribute to the analysis and interpretation of human remains. This hands-on workshop is designed to help archaeologists and monitors recognize the key features to distinguish sex, age, population affinity, and distinguishing life history features.

This workshop is not intended as a substitute for consulting with a biological anthropologist for the analysis of remains, but rather to equip archaeologists to recover and recognize information that is important for skeletal analysis that is sometimes lost after remains are removed from the field context. Emphasis will be placed on what information can be gained from highly fragmented human remains. Pre-registration is required.

Maximum enrollment: 25

1:00 p.m. – 5:00 p.m.

Cost: $40.00

Foraging Theory and Practice

Instructor: Robert L. Bettinger, Distinguished Professor Emeritus, UC Davis

This workshop will introduce the theoretical foundation of foraging theory, beginning with the concept of rational choice and definition of costs and benefits. Explores application of the foraging models most amenable to application to the archaeological and ethnographic record. Participants may sign up for morning and afternoon, morning only, or afternoon only. Session costs cover flash drives programmed with spreadsheets to execute applications of all models covered. Must bring a laptop to obtain full benefit. Working knowledge of Microsoft Excel is highly useful. Pre-registration is required.

ACOR1: Northern Sierra Mewuk Acorn Processing

Instructors: Allison Stevenot and Kimberly Stevenot

The workshop will guide participants through the traditional Northern Sierra Mewuk method of processing black oak acorns into acorn mush, with some modern adaptations. This will include a discussion on when and how the acorns are harvested, how they are stored and dried, and then will move onto a hands-on workshop where participants will crack and hull the acorns, clean them, pound them into flour, and sift. The hands-on portion will then follow with a discussion about how leaching is done both traditionally and contemporarily, and finally either a video of stone boiling or a live demonstration given the resources available at the meeting space. Participants will also be given a chance to taste the final product Nupa, acorn mush. Participants are asked to bring a small sharp pocketknife and to be prepared to get messy and possibly work outside. Pre-registration is required.

Maximum enrollment: 30	8:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m.	Cost: $45.00

Instructors: Vincent Medina and Louis Trevino

Join Vincent Medina (Chochenyo Ohlone) and Louis Trevino (Rumsen Ohlone) for an afternoon celebrating Ohlone cuisine and culture. This workshop will guide participants through the philosophy and vision of Café Ohlone (mak- 'amham), and the work of its co-founders to revive Ohlone Indian food traditions. This will include discussions about California's abundant native foods, stewardship and management principles, the history and context of the indigenous food movement, ancestral foods and archaeology, and why decolonizing diets is so important. Instructor: Alexander (Sandy) Rogers, MA, MS, RPA

The goal of this workshop is to provide insight into the theory and methods of obsidian hydration dating (OHD). It should help enable the archaeologist to perform OHD analyses, and enable the manager to ask the right questions. The workshop will cover the basic principles of obsidian hydration and the models employed in dating; how to develop an appropriate effective hydration temperature (EHT); various methods of computing a hydration rate; guidelines for data analysis; and numerous cautions. An Excel spreadsheet with numerical models for conducting an OHD analysis will be provided. Mathematics will be kept to a minimum, but cannot be avoided entirely. Electronic copies of key references will be provided. Pre-registration is required.

Maximum enrollment: 25	9:00 a.m. - 11:00 a.m.	Cost: $40.00

STUDENT EVENTS

Let's Do Lunch

Let's Do Lunch pairs students with more senior members for lunch, providing students an opportunity to meet an archaeological professional and ask questions about obtaining a job, building a resume, or getting into graduate school. Pairing people at random gives students a chance to meet professionals who they might not otherwise encounter at the meeting. This also gives the senior members of our Society a chance to mentor the next generation of California archaeologists and pass along knowledge about how to be successful in the field.

Let's Do Lunch will be held on Saturday, March 5, at 12:00 p.m. (meet in the registration area at 11:45 a.m.). The SCA will arrange for a venue for the luncheon. The regular member is asked to "treat" the student member by buying them lunch. While regular members will be paired with a single student, the venue will probably seat multiple pairs together, so there will be opportunities for students to chat with more than one professional. This is a wonderful event, so please check the box in your registration packet to participate in Let's Do Lunch. Buying lunch for a student member is the best investment in the future of the SCA and can make a real difference!

Student Mixer

The Student Affairs Committee has organized its annual Student Mixer at the SCA Annual Meeting. The goal of the Student Mixer is to provide students an opportunity to network with professionals and academics in the California archaeological community. Students, please come and take advantage of the years of collective wisdom from our group of professionals participating in this year's event. Come prepared to mix, mingle, and ask questions about getting archaeology jobs or internships in California, advice for creating more competitive resumes, and suggestions for getting into graduate programs.

The student mixer will be held from 5:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. prior to the Annual Banquet on Saturday, March 5, in conjunction with a cash bar. Come one, come all to mix and mingle and provide advice to the next generation of California archaeologists.

Ethics Bowl

The SCA Executive Board has decided to hold the first annual Ethics Bowl competition at the Annual Meeting. Organized similarly to the SAA Ethics Bowl, held at their annual meetings for several years now, teams of three to five graduate and/or undergraduate students from various universities and colleges will compete against each other in a series of rounds. The winning team moves on to the next round until there is a final winning team. The winning team takes home a traveling trophy to display in the institution's department for the next year and their team/school name is engraved onto the trophy. Additional prizes will be awarded to winning team members. Full description HERE or contact Glenn Russell for more information, glenn@scahome.org.

DONATE TO THE SILENT AUCTION FUNDRAISER!

The Silent Auction is an important fundraising event for the SCA. The success of this event is completely dependent on the generosity of all members of our Society. We encourage you to think outside the box this year to help us get donations and make this the most successful auction ever! Do you have a timeshare that you might be willing to donate a week of? A friend who owns a winery that might be willing to donate a gift basket or wine tasting? A local business you frequent that might donate a gift basket or certificate? A behind the scenes tour at a museum or other venue? Theme park tickets? Individual members and businesses are encouraged to donate any items that will help raise money for the SCA, so please branch out this year and ask the businesses you frequent, work for, or have other connections with to donate!

For businesses, the Silent Auction represents a great opportunity to let all attendees know that your firm is an active, generous participant within the archaeological community. Don't forget, your donations are tax deductible, and with recent tax changes this is all the more important! We need YOU to help us get donations to continue to support the SCA and these meetings and events that we all enjoy. We are asking firms that donate beer or wine to the Silent Auction to also consider providing a non-alcoholic option, such as mocktails, bottled water, or soda, and to provide a few food accompaniments on their tables, such as desserts.

General questions regarding the Silent Auction should be directed to the Business Office at office@scahome.org or (530) 342-3537. Questions regarding the donation of goods should be directed to Jennifer Barbee (jbarbee@appliedearthworks.com) or Kristina Roper (kroper3r@gmail.com). We ask that businesses, institutions, and individual members support this fun and fabulous event. Be sure to bring your checkbook or cash so you can bid on the great assortment of donated goods and services. Items more than $100 may also be purchased via credit card.

CHILDCARE

The annual SCA conference is arguably the most important forum for California archaeologists to engage with other professionals, communicate new information, and forge new collaborations. Yet parents of young children find it extremely difficult to remain engaged in conference activities, and the costs of childcare (especially when combined with regular attendance costs) are often prohibitive. Therefore, the WCA will be sponsoring on-site daycare at the 2022 SCA meeting in Visalia for pre-registered members.

The WCA ensures a licensed provider, an adequate number of caretakers, and a safe environment. The Visalia care-center will take place in a hotel suite with a separate room for naps, a clean bathroom, and a refrigerator for storing milk/snacks.

The sign-up sheet is a non-committal survey to determine how many caretakers we will need to hire. Once signed-up, a follow-up email will be sent to collect more specifics about your care needs and to ask for a small reimbursable deposit to secure a space. This is a pre-registration event as we will not be able to accommodate drop-ins.

ANNUAL MEETING UNDERWRITERS

The SCA Executive Board encourages businesses and corporations engaged in archaeological work in our state to demonstrate their appreciation of the efforts of the SCA by making generous (tax deductible!) donations. These contributions will enable our Society to continue its good work in both the public and private sectors, in education and advocacy, and representing professional archaeologists throughout California. For further information, please contact office@scahome.org. Donations can be made on the SCA website, or sent to: SCA Business Office, P.O. Box 2582, Granite Bay, CA 95746.
